

Kingston Surprises Itself

2nd Place - Intramurals '66-'67

by Jack Pers & Mark Bernstein

Prior to the '66 - '67 school year, Kingston House hadn't exactly earned fear and respect as an intramural power. In spite of the many flashy and colorful teams that we fielded, our first three years had brought us 16th, 13th, and 10th place finishes respectively. Who would have guessed that our mediocre (at best) talent and our overwhelming spirit would bring us a second place finish for the past season? Looking back over last season's games, I have no choice but to attribute our great rise in intramurals to our truly tremendous team pride and spirit. Kingston House drew the largest crowds to its games all year long. Following is an account of "How we did it."

The intramural season opened with football, and our many hours of practice seemed to have finally payed off. Kingston not only had never won a football game before, we had never even scored a point. However, led by quarterback Jack Levy, end Mickey Kall, and a very tight defense, we defeated Crown House and State House to place us in the semi-finals. In the semis, we faced a strong and heavily favored Randon House squad. We were not to be denied, however, as we ran around and through Randon to victory. House of York proved to be too strong, and our team was defeated in the finals.

We had high hopes for our basketball team last season, but we lost our first game when Regal House proved to be a little too strong off the boards. We were Jack Pers swept past Playboy's Penthouse and PowerHouse in badminton singles, only to be defeated by Randon House in the finals.

Victories in these sports enabled us to place third in intramurals for the fall semester. Steve Zalben dashed to victory our team of Jack Levy, Mel Morgenbesser, Richie Defiore, Rick Kushner, Steve Berson, and Greene romped past all of its opponents until once again we were defeated by House of York in a hard fought and exciting 2 out of 3 series.

York proved to be our nemesis in softball too, as once again they edged us in the finals. A good all-around team led by Jack Pers at bat, and Steve Berson on the mound, Kingston fought its way past Crown House, Playboy's not helped when our high scorer, Jack Levy, had his glasses knocked off and broken with the game just a few minutes old.

In the past, tennis had been our only athletic claim to fame for the fall season. Once again, our doubles team of Richie Branciforte and Richie Defiore captured the CHP doubles crown.

for our track team, as Kingston recorded the first intramural track point in its history. Kingston made its true mark in the spring term with second place finishes in both volleyball and softball.

For the second straight year, we fought our way to the volleyball finals. Led by Greg Greene,

Last June, when 25 members of Kingston House graduated, the members decided to set up an Alumni Association to maintain contact with their graduates. Realizing that Kingston House was unique in that its seniors had been amongst the most active members, Kingston wanted to maintain contact with their friends, (as well as taking their money.)

As of this date, several alumni functions have been planned. This newspaper is one. An alumni newspaper listing all the addresses of the alumni is slated for late November. The Kingston Alumni Assoc. will also try to get Follies

Penthouse, and Knighthouse, into the finals.

Our bowling team, consisting of Steve Gross, Mel Morgenbesser, Steve Weiser, Jack Pers, and Paul Karschawer, also made an impressive showing, only to be knocked out of the finals on the last round.

We returned again this year with more talent, and overwhelming spirit and pride. We expect, once again to field flashy colorful teams, with one difference... This year we look for first place!
